

Marine Plaza Southend On Sea

We were appointed by our client to provide landscape related information for a detailed planning application for this proposed new build, high-density mixed use development with substantial public realm located over basement parking, located to the east of London. The development accommodates 290 residential units and 3,000m² commercial space.

The proposed development is located in a seafront location overlooking the promenade and is to act as an anchor development to help regenerate this area. At the promenade ground and first floor levels active frontage is proposed in the form of cafes and restaurants. The rest of the development, including the eight and twelve floor towers to the site frontage is to be residential apartments.

At the heart of the scheme is one large public space with planting, this is located over basement car parks. This central landscape, as well as providing amenity space for residents and visitors to this development, must provide service vehicle access across the site. The planting in the central part of this site is maritime in nature and is planted through a mulch reminiscent of a dune landscape.

The landscape proposals for this scheme were inspired by the adjacent coastal environment maritime planting and the colours and hues of materials in this location all informed decisions made about the design elements of this scheme.
