

Park Grove Acton, Ealing, London

We were appointed by a developer client to provide landscape architect's information to discharge landscape related conditions for this residential development located in Acton, West London. We were then tasked to produce a full package of information to enable the tender of the external works.

The proposed built form is located on a podium deck ground floor slab. This slab extends beyond the envelope of the building and accommodates a number of private ground floor patios. Below the ground floor slab a basement car park is located. This car park is accessed via a ramp at the rear of the building. Natural ventilation to this car park was partly achieved by vents located within the shared amenity space. Our proposals attempted to provide an appropriate level of quality for these elements in order that they were seamlessly accommodated within their surrounding context.

All private patios which abut the shared amenity spaces needed to have an element of defensible space. This was created by the erection of a 1.8m high London stock brick walls and shrub planting.

The plot boundary to the busy East Acton Lane and The Vale needed to create an appropriate edge to the site. A London stock brick and railing wall was erected. Behind this wall a hedge and a row of trees were planted. The intention of the tree planting was to provide some visual screen between the mass of the building and the carriageways.
